

Time Alone with God:

A number of years ago I suddenly had a lot of time on my hands. I recently had quit my teaching job, and our children had gone off to college. At church I heard about the Apostle Paul, who after he became a Christian, went to Arabia for a time. I didn't go to Arabia, but I did start having my "desert time" when I would spend time alone with God. Even though I had grown up in church, I had never read the Bible and prayed regularly at home. Wow, what an adventure I had begun! Things are definitely different now and for the better!
